

US-Iran Conflict Briefing

2026-10-03 · Morning edition · Issued 07:00 CDT

Seventh Tanker Strike This Week: Tanker Hit Off Oman

- The master of a crude oil tanker reported being struck by an unknown projectile four nautical miles east of Oman early Saturday, the United Kingdom Maritime Trade Operations office said; all crew were reported safe and no environmental impact was reported. — Reuters
- The Saturday strike followed a separate UKMTO report Friday of a projectile strike on a vessel exiting the Strait of Hormuz that caused a small fire and an electrical blackout; the crew extinguished the fire and the vessel resumed its voyage. — Reuters

FlyDubai Probe: Israeli Investigators to Question Co-Pilot; No Iranian Link Found So Far

- Israeli officials are expected to question the co-pilot who allegedly tried to crash FlyDubai flight FZ1073 on Wednesday; the suspect, described by Israeli officials as an Omani national, was transferred to the United Arab Emirates on Thursday, and Israeli investigators will take part in the UAE-led investigation examining his motives and background. — Reuters
- Israeli security officials say Israel has not identified any Iranian involvement in the FlyDubai incident so far, a relevant counterweight to President Trump's assertion that Iran may have been behind the co-pilot. — Reuters

Two Iranians Charged in Britain Over Alleged Yom Kippur Terror Plot

- Two Iranian nationals, 36-year-old Salam Ahmadyan and 34-year-old Rahman Salehi, were charged Friday in Britain with engaging in conduct in preparation for terrorist acts, after their arrest on September 20 on the eve of Yom Kippur; counter-terrorism police allege the pair were in contact with an overseas third party who may be in Iran, and that they tried to acquire components for an improvised explosive device and conducted reconnaissance on potential targets in Manchester. — CNN
- British counter-terrorism police said there is no connection between the Manchester case and the separate suspected terror plot against RAF Fairford, and said they do not believe there is an ongoing threat to the public related to the alleged Manchester attack. — CNN

G7 Agrees Emergency 100-Million-Barrel Fuel Release After Trump Pressure

- G7 leaders agreed at an emergency videoconference Friday chaired by French President Emmanuel Macron to an International Energy Agency-coordinated release of up to 100 million barrels of diesel and crude over four months, with a substantial frontloaded diesel release in the first 20 days; members also pledged to refrain from energy export restrictions. — AP
- The deal followed days of ultimatums from President Trump, who had threatened a U.S. diesel export ban unless allies released stockpiles; Trump said Friday that the ban is now off the table and that the release process would begin immediately. — AP

Netanyahu Showed UAE New Israeli Intelligence on Iran's Nuclear Program

- An Israeli source said Prime Minister Netanyahu showed UAE President Mohammed bin Zayed new Israeli intelligence indicating Iran is resuming progress on its nuclear program, including new construction at the 'Pickaxe mountain' site about 140 miles south of Tehran; Israel assesses Iran could initiate a regional attack in the coming weeks, and the talks also covered the Houthis, Bab al-Mandeb, and the Strait of Hormuz. — CNN
- Three senior Israeli officials said the secret September 27 meeting lasted about six hours, and a senior Saudi security official also attended, though Saudi Arabia denied it. — CNN

Markets

- Brent crude settled at $102.25 a barrel on Friday, October 2, edging down 0.06% as traders weighed the G-7 fuel-release news. — WSJ
- U.S. West Texas Intermediate settled at $91.11 a barrel on Friday, down 1.9% on the day. — WSJ
- The U.S. national average diesel price was $6.382 a gallon in the week ended September 28, down nearly 15 cents from the week before but still almost $2.63 higher than a year earlier, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration. — WSJ
- The 10-year U.S. Treasury yield closed Friday at about 5.28%, retreating from a 24-year high of 5.3445% earlier in the session. — Reuters

Related media

A tanker transiting the Strait of Hormuz (file photo, May 2026 — not one of this week's struck vessels). — view original

Illustration: oil tankers transiting the Strait of Hormuz (August 2026). — view original

Sources: Reuters · Reuters · Reuters · CNN · AP · CNN · WSJ · WSJ · Reuters

Compiled from X posts and traditional news outlets. Verify before acting on any single report.